The Sustaining Power of Ritual By Fr. Ron Rolheiser, here is an article I found thoughtful about how and why we come to worship each weekend. Also he says something about the age old complaint that "it's boring!" Let me know what you think of his article. FHK

A recent study on marriage points out that couples who make it a habit to give each other a ritual embrace or kiss before leaving the house in the morning and another ritual embrace or kiss before retiring at night fare better than those who let this gesture be determined by simple spontaneity or mood. The study makes the point that even if the ritual kiss is done in a distracted, hurried, perfunctory, or duty-bound way it still serves a very important function, namely, it speaks of fidelity and commitment beyond the ups and downs of our emotions, distractions, and tiredness on a given day. It is a ritual, an act that is done regularly to precisely say what our hearts and heads cannot always say, namely, that the deepest part of us remains committed even during those times when we are too tired, too distracted, too angry, too bored, too anxious, too self-preoccupied, or too emotionally or intellectually unfaithful to be as attentive and present as we should be. It says that we still love the other and remain committed despite the inevitable changes and pressures that the seasons bring.

This is often not understood today. An over-idealization of love, family, church, and prayer often crucifies the reality. Popular culture would have us believe that love should be romantic, exciting, and interesting all the time, and that lack of felt emotion is a signal that something is wrong. Liturgists and prayer leaders would have us believe that every church service needs to be full of enthusiasm and emotion and that there is something wrong with us when we find ourselves flat, bored, looking at our wristwatches, and resisting emotional engagement during church or prayer. Everywhere we are warned about the dangers of doing something simply because it is duty, that there is something wrong when the movements of love, prayer, or service become routine. Why do something if your heart isn't in it?

Again, there is something legitimate in these warnings: Duty and commitment without heart will not ultimately sustain themselves. However, with that being admitted, it is important to recognize and name the fact that any relationship in love, family, church, or prayer can only sustain itself over a long period through ritual and routine. Ritual sustains the heart, not vice versa.

It's fidelity to the routine of everyday life, not a honeymoon, that ultimately sustains a marriage. It's fidelity to simply being at the weekday meal, simple fare eaten quickly and distractedly, not the huge celebration or banquet, that sustains family life. A family that demands that every meal together be an event where everyone affectively engages and insists that the pressures of time and personal agenda should be of no concern soon enough notices that more and more family members are finding excuses not to be there. And for good reason: Nobody has energy for a banquet every day. Indeed, nobody, except God, is immune to the simple tiredness, distraction, affective promiscuity, and self-preoccupation that can make it difficult for the heart to be alert, attentive, and emotionally present at any given time. Love, as the language of Marriage Encounter puts it, is shown in decision.

The same holds true for prayer. Anyone who prays only when she can affectively bring along her heart and soul will not sustain prayer for long. But the habit of prayer, the ritual, simple fidelity to the act, showing up to do it irrespective of feelings and mood, can sustain prayer for a lifetime and reign in the roaming of the head and heart.

Repetition, says Soren Kierkegaard, is our daily bread.

CATHOLIC APPEAL

– Called to Love and Share

We still have $8,460 to raise before we reach our parish goal of $42,000. Thank you to the 201 families at Sacred Heart that have already contributed. If you have not yet given, please consider a gift today and help us meet our goal.

Remember, our parish will receive 25 percent of all funds we raise above our goal. So each gift has the potential to increase parish revenue while also supporting the important ministries funded by the Catholic Appeal. The Appeal is to our Archdiocese what the weekly offertory is to our parish. If you have not yet made your gift, please consider making a pledge this weekend.

You can pick up information packets in the back of the Church with pledge forms to be mailed in, or for more information please visit www.BostonCatholicAppeal.com or call 617-779-3700.

Every gift matters. Thank you! Msgr. Frank Kelley

Key Themes of Catholic Social Teaching

The Church's social teaching is a rich treasure of wisdom about building a just society and living lives of holiness amidst the challenges of modern society.

These are brief reflections highlighting several of the key themes that are at the heart of our Catholic social tradition.

Rights and Responsibilities

The Catholic tradition teaches that human dignity can be protected and a healthy community can be achieved only if human rights are protected and responsibilities are met. Therefore, every person has a fundamental right to life and a right to those things required for human decency. Corresponding to these rights are duties and responsibilities—to one another, to our families, and to the larger society.

Option for the Poor and Vulnerable

A basic moral test is how our most vulnerable members are faring. In a society marred by deepening divisions between rich and poor, our tradition recalls the story of the Last Judgment (Matthew 25:31-46) and instructs us to put the needs of the poor and vulnerable first.

MISTERIO DEL DOLOR

Queridos Hermanos:

En los últimos meses, la comunidad del Sagrado Corazón ha experimentado la cruz del dolor en muchos de nuestros miembros. Familiares que han muerto debido a la violencia doméstica o callejera. Personas muy queridas que están sufriendo enfermedades que nos llenan de miedo, personas que están sufriendo injusticias que afectan a toda la familia y a la comunidad. El dolor que aplasta con sus zaparazos, y la fe que tiembla y se pregunta; ¿por qué a mi? ¿por qué ahora? Cuando el dolor parece ahogarnos y quitarnos hasta las ganas de vivir nos preguntamos si Dios, el BUENO, esta sordo a nuestros gritos, o si se ha ido de vacaciones.

El dolor es un misterio que desafía a nuestra mente, que es incapaz de hallar una respuesta. Como todo misterio, la respuesta tiene que venir desde la fe. Creer es fiarse de Dios. La bondad de Dios es hace más patente que nunca cuando nos vemos sumergidos en el misterio del dolor. Dios permite el dolor en nuestro viaje, para sintamos nuestra incapacidad para dar respuesta al misterio y nos abracemos a la cruz, que de manera incompresible nos hace libres. Dios ha diseñado nuestro viaje y los ha diseñado con armor. Porque nos ama y quiere amarnos para siempre, permite que la desgracia nos oprima, para que no nos apeguemos a cosas, sentimientos, personas que no pueden liberarnos. El dolor es más poderoso que nuestro yo y sus propiedades. El dolor es una invitación a morir a nuestro yo y vivir inmersos es ese misterio de AMOR que se llama Dios. El nos reveló como nada sucede sin que El lo permita:

¿Quién de ustedes, por más que se preocupel, puede añadir algo su estatura? Si ustedes no tienen poder sobre cosas tan pequeñas, ¿cómo van a preocuparse por lo demás? Aprendan de los lirios del campo: no hilan ni tejen, pero you les digo que ni Salomón, con todo su lujo, se pudo vestir como uno de ellos. Y si Dios viste tan lindo a la hieva del campo, que hoy está y mañana se echará al fuego, ¿qué no hará por ustedes, gente de poca fe?

Lucas 12, 25-28

Dios sabe, permite el misterio del dolor en nuestras vidas, para que nos abandonemos a su misterio y así muriendo a nuestro YO en la cruz del dolor resucitemos en la pascua de la paz y la vida.
